

BHP

ALL PACKED UP

Every year, up to four million people in Australia - 18% of the population - regularly experience food insecurities. All year round, Foodbank works hard to change this and alleviate hunger throughout Australia. Working in partnership with BHP, the not-for-profit organisation provides more than 70% of the food for relief organisations nation-wide: a massive and very important contribution which actively ensures people and families don't go hungry.

On Thursday 4 November, the Marketing team volunteered their time to assist Foodbank within their warehouse. After a welcome and tour, the team moved into the cool room and were tasked with packing together fish packs, consisting of various fish products and chips. With jackets and gloves on, the team got to work quickly, forming a production line to achieve efficiency. Midway through the morning, a few team members were called to assist out on the warehouse, working alongside some of the regular volunteers to pack snack packs. In the afternoon, the team in the cool room created pizza packs! After lots of boxes and hard work, the team had successfully packaged up multiple crates of fish packs, snack packs and pizza packs - these packs would then be sold within Foodbank agency space or distributed throughout the various Foodbank hubs in WA. It was a productive day, with music playing and great banter throughout the day. The team did an awesome job for Foodbank and we hope they enjoyed their volunteer experience.
