WAREHOUSE LEGENDS

Good Sammy is a social enterprise focused on providing meaningful employment opportunities and pathways for Western Australians with disability. Their vision is to create a better future for people with disability and believe in creating inclusive workplaces as this is the foundation for an inclusive society. Good Sammy currently has 27 shops, located from Albany to Geraldton and employs more than 265 employees with disability, in a variety of roles.

On this delightful Friday morning, the MAC Maintenance Planning Team gathered at Good Sammy Warehouse to assist with various tasks alongside the staff and volunteers. The team of eleven, arrived nice and early and we were welcomed by Karen, the Volunteer Coordinator who spoke about the organisation and the projects of the day. The team were lucky enough to meet CEO, Kane Blackman who spoke about the origins of Good Sammy, how he got involved and the true purpose of the business, which is to develop employment opportunities for Western Australians living with a disability. The team was then taken on a tour of the facility, which was a great opportunity to ask questions about how the organisation operates. The team were able to see the amount of donations Good Sammy receives and what they do with all the stock!

The team was then split into three groups: books, clothing and assisting in the online store. Other tasks included folding clothing which had already been sorted, which would be sent to various retail stores around WA. Plenty of laughs was shared between the BHP team and the Good Sammy employees throughout the day. Each volunteer was able to rotate tasks to try something new, helping the online team tagging clothes seemed to be a crowd favourite!

Big thank you to this team for putting in a huge effort. We hope they enjoyed their volunteering experience at Good Sammy.
