

BHP

SEEDS OF CHANGE!

Greening Australia WA started conserving and restoring Australia's landscapes in 1982 and haven't stopped since. With teams in 30 locations around the country and over 150 staff we're a proudly independent not-for-profit organisation. The team uses the latest science to guide what's best for the landscapes and the people and wildlife that live in them.

On Wednesday 18th October, a dedicated group from BHP came together with a variety of other stakeholders from the Hedland Community to volunteer their time to support Greening Australia WA.

Before the planting began, the volunteers were welcomed by the Kariyarra people with a smoking ceremony, which made the volunteers really appreciate the precious land they would be planting on.

Well done to everyone involved and for putting in such a huge effort on the day. What an amazing day to be a part of, we hope you enjoyed your volunteering experience.

Thank you BHP!

View all photos
from the day here.

